

God Republicans by far, especially concerning recent events

user1

I think Republicans are the most hypocritical people in the country. Look at their stances on abortion and gun control.

user2

Agreed Ambrose. They are complete hypocrites.

user2

Exactly, they claim to care about lives but do nothing when 19 children are shot to death

user1

Definitely. They blame it on everything else but guns. Ted Cruz blaming it on the doors??? Does he really think that people are dumb enough to believe that?

user2

I know, it's insane. And trying to pin it on mental health (which is definitely an issue) or claim that the gunman was trans (and that was the problem) :/

user1

Then the police are afraid to go in because of the weapons that this person used...so now we have unnecessary death because the Republicans are holding back legislation that the majority of the country wants passed.

user2

And that swat team made up 40% of the municipal budget for that town

user1

So fund the police, back the blue, except they do absolutely nothing to protect your precious not aborted children

user1

And look how inefficient they were in the situation. The town is basically wasting money paying for that.

user2

Exactly. Oh so call the police on someone trying to get an abortion but if you see someone with an AR-15, just let them go about their merry way.

user2

Completely, super armed, armored supposed experts in this type of situation, afraid to go in and do their jobs

user1

Yep

user1

If they cared about children they would do the very simple and obvious solution of banning assault weapons. There is no reason for the average citizen to have access to military grade weapons

user1

Democrats need to start acting just like the Republicans did when Trump was in office. Biden needs to start signing executive orders and Democrats need to pass whatever legislation they want.

user2

This doesn't happen elsewhere

user1

Yes, I'm so tired of them just meekly trying to compromise

user1

Exactly. How is it that an 18 year old is able to get their hands on a death machine? That is so unacceptable.

user2

With no vetting or training or mental health check or anything

user1

I hope that something really happens this time. I am so sick and tired of these mass shootings and then nothing happens. Whether it is children or older people or a minority getting shot, its completely unacceptable.

user2

Opposed to, say, getting an abortion or sterilization

user1

It is like that meme, make men go through the same thing getting a gun that women have to deal with getting an abortion.

user2

Hehe yes

user1

An abortion which "kills" one "person" but nothing comparable to a machine specifically designed to kill as many people possible in as little time possible

user1

and does

user1

frequently

user1

Totally. They are more worried about controlling women and a clump of cells rather than protecting innocent humans.

user2

I really do hope that something happens and soon...America is a domestic terrorist breeding ground at this point. Funny how the Republicans refused to sign that bill as well. They knew that it would make their constituents mad though. Republicans are the party of domestic terrorists.

user2